RE: Government of Canada's Formal Apology for Indian Residential Schools

Dear Prime Minister Harper:

KAIROS: Canadian Ecumenical Justice Initiatives unites eleven national churches and church organizations in faithful work for social justice and human rights. KAIROS member churches represent millions of Canadians in thousands of communities.

For decades, the churches that form KAIROS have worked with Indigenous peoples in Canada to honour nation-to-nation relationships that promote, protect and implement the human rights of Indigenous peoples, including the right to self-determination.

KAIROS is encouraged that the long-awaited apology to the former students of residential schools, and their families, will take place in the House of Commons on June 11.

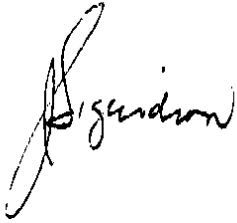

However, the terms of the Indian Residential School Agreement include the involvement of Indigenous peoples in the process of preparing the apology. We are concerned to learn that Indigenous peoples have not been involved in either drafting the apology or planning the event.

A sincere and meaningful apology is essential if it is to contribute to the ongoing process of healing between Indigenous peoples and non-Indigenous peoples. This will not be possible if Indigenous peoples are excluded, since a key component of a meaningful apology must be the involvement of the victims at all stages. As well as acknowledging past injustices, and the responsibility for them, a genuine apology must include a meaningful process of reconciliation. The government's approach to the human rights of Indigenous peoples, including its actions on residential schools, makes it difficult to conclude that the government is committed to a transparent, inclusive and meaningful process.

Unless the apology is clear about the government's commitment to changing the way it deals with Indigenous peoples and their human rights, it will not be taken seriously by Indigenous peoples or their supporters, nor will it contribute to a new partnership based on mutual respect and recognition of rights and responsibilities.

We urge you to act immediately to seek the input of the Assembly of First Nations, the Inuit Tapiriit Kanatami, survivor organizations and other Indigenous peoples and groups in order to ensure that the apology is conducive to genuine reconciliation and healing.

Sincerely,

Janet Sigurdson
